Training a Father.

Fathers are quite as hard to train as boys, and from experience all along the line, I have come to the conclusion that fathers and boys alike will mostly go their own way, in the long run getting "what is coming to them."

But it is the power of the father to help a boy to realize his best instead of his worst tendencies and possibilities. To this

To this end, a father should be sympathetic and patient, helping the development of whatever natural taste or genius a boy may have. Virtue is never negative and a boy is held from idleness or vice by giving him something better to work at. If a boy has a real love for some study or for some worthy line of work, encourage that. It marks the way out from temptation. A boy needs in his development sympathy rather than financial help. His ideals need strengthening, not his purse. To have money to burn will ruin all those who burn it. It is hard to raise a boy who is rich and knows that whatever he wants is his for the asking. He is likely to be content with what money can buy, and it cannot buy very much that is worth having. It can help in many things, but a mere aid is not the thing itself.

The father can promote the plain virtues of sobriety, honesty, tolerance, and kindness. The most effective way of teaching these virtues is for him to illustrate them in himself—to show how righteousness looks when it is lived.

Occasionally a father successfully proves his point by becoming the awful example. But that is not the best way, and right living can be most effectively taught, not by precept but by practice. And remember always that right living is a positive thing. It is not secured by inhibitions. "Don't, don't don't" never leads to anything worth while. Don't say to boys: "keep off the grass. Keep out of the dirt. Keep away from the slums." Rather indicate places it is better to go to: "This way to citizenship; this way to science, to art, to a worthy profession."

It is worth while to remember that the boy is the germ of what the man is to be. You cannot change his nature much, but you can develop the best in him till it overshadows the worst. The life of a man at forty will be what was in his heart at twenty-one.

And a father may say to his boys something like this, which in one way or another I have said to thousands of boys in this and other countries:

"Your first duty in life is toward your afterlife. So live that your afterlife—the man you ought to be—may in his time be possible and actual.

"Far away in the years he is waiting his turn. His body, his brain, his soul, are in your boyish hands. He cannot help himself.

"What will you leave for him?" "Will it be a body unspoiled by lust or dissipation; a mind trained to think and act; a nervous system true as a dial in its response to the truth about you. Will you, Boy, let him come as a man among men in his time?" "Or will you throw away his inheritance before he has had the chance to touch it? Will you turn over to him a brain distorted, a mind diseased; a will untrained to action; a spinal cord grown through and through with the devil grass we call wild oats?"

"Will you let him come, taking your place, gaining through your experience, happy in your friendships, hallowed through your joys, building on them his own?"

"Or will you fling it all away, decreeing, wanton-like, that the man you might have been shall never be?"

"This is your problem in life, the problem vastly more important to you than any or all others. How will you meet it, as a man or as a fool? It is your problem today and every day, and the hour of your choice is the crisis in your history."

The New Edison

"The Phonograph With A Soul"

Because the Edison Co., features Grand Opera Re-Creations so constantly some people have the idea that it overlooks the more popular music. Quite otherwise. It is sorry for the man who can't enjoy a rollicking rag-time ditty. It believes in democracy in music. And it supports its belief by producing vast quantities of the latest hits.

In Edison Grand Opera Re-Creations you receive all that the ear can give you of the art of the world's great opera stars. Three million dollars was spent in research work to perfect an instrument which would be capable of achieving this effect. But it was three million dollars well spent. For the result is The New Edison "the phonograph with a soul," the only phonograph which can meet the tone test, the test of direct comparison with the living artist's voice or instrument.

It is our honest belief that not nothing in the world yields larger dividends in pleasure for the sum invested than the New Edison. To the entire family it brings all that the ear can give of the art of the world's greatest singers. And remember, our popular Re-Creations too, are made with the same exacting insistence upon perfection which marks our Grand Opera arias.

See the exhibit of Edison period cabinets now on display at our store.
